

Innovative Workplaces

MAKING BETTER USE OF SKILLS
WITHIN ORGANISATIONS

Table of contents

Executive summary	9
Introduction	15
References	18
Chapter 1. Defining learning organisations and learning cultures.....	19
Notes	26
References	27
Chapter 2. Mapping learning organisations and their characteristics for the European Union	31
Mapping learning organisations for the EU	33
The role of learning cultures	41
Linking learning organisations to institutional context	64
Employee learning in public sector establishments.....	73
Summary	76
Notes	77
References	79
Annex 2.A1. Graphical representation of factor analysis in the European Working Conditions Survey (EWCS) 2000: 15 organisational variables	83
Annex 2.A2. Multilevel logistic model used in Chapter 2.....	87
Chapter 3. Measuring trends: the work complexity paradox	89
Data and measurement frame	90
A decreasing trend in work complexity.....	92
Taking into account structural factors in a multilevel model	97
Uncovering the work complexity paradox	103
Summary	110
Notes	111
References	111

Annex 3.A. Multilevel model used in Chapter 3.....	115
A benchmark regression to identify within-country and between-country variance	115
Four models.....	116
Chapter 4. Behind innovation: employer and employee trade-offs	119
Designing adaptive or learning organisational structures.....	120
Organisational change, innovation and employee outcomes.....	124
Summary	131
References	133
Annex 4.A. Multilevel learning organisation metrics based on the European Union Meadow Project.....	137
Conclusion.....	139
Policy programmes.....	141
Notes.....	146
References	147