

Bogumil Terminski

DEVELOPMENT-INDUCED DISPLACEMENT AND RESETTLEMENT:

Causes, Consequences, and Socio-Legal Context

ibidem-Verlag
Stuttgart

Table of Contents

Table of Contents.....	5
List of Acronyms	7
Foreword.....	13
From the author	15
Introduction—a brief overview
of contemporary involuntary migrations.....	19
1. An overview of development-induced displacement and resettlement.....	49
2. Historical considerations regarding development-induced population displacement and resettlement.....	65
3. Theoretical conceptualization of development-induced displacement and resettlement.....	71
4. The most important causes of development-induced displacement and resettlement.....	83
4.1. Construction of Dams and Irrigation Projects	86
4.2. Development of transportation infrastructure.....	121
4.3. Urbanization, re-urbanization, transformation of urban space and population redistribution schemes in urban areas.....	124
4.4. Deforestation and the expansion of agriculture	143
4.5. Mining and transportation of resources	144
4.6. Population redistribution schemes.....	160
4.7. Conservation of nature	163
4.8. Other causes of development-induced population displacement.....	175
5. The European context of development-induced displacement and resettlement	179
6. Actors of resettlement processes and their basic functions and objectives.....	223
7. Applying the concept of human security to research on development-induced displacement and resettlement.	275
8. Development-caused displacement and resettlement as a social and economic opportunity.....	301
9. Development-induced displacement and the dynamics of social change	367
10. The politicization of development-induced displacement and resettlement.....	393
11. Voluntary resettlement schemes	401
12. Analysis of the stages of resettlement process	419

13.	Compensation: forms, principles, and potential socio-economic consequences	435
14.	The impact of development-induced displacement and resettlement on families.....	441
15.	Resources as a key issue determining the causes, course, and the socio-economic consequences of resettlement	447
16.	Irreversible spiral of displacement, evictions and forced migrations	457
17.	Activities of international institutions	467
18.	Development-Induced Displacement and Human Rights.....	473
19.	In which direction the international human rights should go? The right not to be displaced and the right to be resettled.....	489
20.	Concluding remarks	517
21.	Abstract	573
22.	Résumé.....	577
23.	Selected Bibliography	583
24.	Annexes.....	599