

INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN LAW

Emily Crawford and Alison Pert

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Preface and acknowledgments	page xiii
Table of cases	xv
Tables of treaties, and Legislation	xvii
List of Abbreviations	xxi
Introduction	1
1 Historical Development of International Humanitarian Law	4
1. Introduction	4
2. Henri Dunant and the Battle of Solferino	5
3. The 1864 Geneva Convention	6
4. The Lieber Code 1863	7
5. The 1868 St Petersburg Declaration	8
6. The 1868 Additional Articles, 1874 Brussels Declaration, 1880 Oxford Manual	9
7. The 1899 and 1907 Hague Conventions	10
8. The 1949 Geneva Conventions	13
a. Common Article 3	15
9. The 1977 Additional Protocols	16
a. Additional Protocol I, wars of national liberation and guerrilla fighters	17
b. Additional Protocol II	17
10. Other IHL instruments	19
11. The development of international criminal law – the ICTY and ICTR, the ICC, and the hybrid and ad hoc courts and tribunals	19
a. The International Criminal Court	20
b. The ad hoc Criminal Tribunals for the former Yugoslavia and Rwanda	23
c. Hybrid and ad hoc courts and tribunals	25
12. Conclusion	27

2	The contemporary legal basis of international humanitarian law and its fundamental principles	29
1.	Introduction	29
2.	The law of armed conflict: purpose, concepts, scope, application	29
a.	The separation of jus ad bellum and jus in bello	30
b.	Hague law and Geneva law	32
c.	Terminology: wars vs. armed conflicts, law of armed conflict vs. international humanitarian law	32
d.	Scope and application of the law of armed conflict	34
3.	Sources of the law of armed conflict	36
a.	Treaties	37
i.	The treaty law distinction between international and non-international armed conflict	37
b.	Custom	38
c.	Other sources – soft law	40
4.	The fundamental principles of the law of armed conflict	41
a.	The principle of distinction	41
i.	The principle of discrimination (prohibition on indiscriminate attacks)	43
b.	Military necessity	43
c.	The principle of proportionality	44
d.	The prohibition on causing unnecessary suffering and superfluous injury	45
e.	The principle of neutrality	46
f.	The principle of humanity	47
5.	Conclusion	48
3	Types of armed conflicts	50
1.	Introduction	50
2.	International armed conflicts	51
a.	Common Article 2 armed conflicts	51
i.	“War” vs. “armed conflict”	51
ii.	What is an “armed conflict”?	52
iii.	Occupation	54
b.	Wars of national liberation	54
3.	Non-international armed conflicts	58
a.	Common Article 3 armed conflicts	61
i.	Intensity and organisation	63

ii. Geographical field of application	66
iii. The shortcomings of Common Article 3	67
b. Additional Protocol II armed conflicts	67
i. Material field of application	68
4. Internationalised and “transnational” armed conflicts	72
a. Internationalised armed conflicts	73
i. Military intervention by a foreign State in a NIAC	73
A. The conflict becomes an IAC, regardless of which side the foreign State supports	73
B. If the foreign State supports the territorial State, the conflict remains non-international	74
C. If the foreign State supports the armed group, the conflict between the foreign State and the territorial State is international; that between the armed group and the territorial State remains non-international	75
D. If the foreign State supports the armed group, the whole conflict becomes international	75
ii. One of the parties is acting on behalf of a foreign State	76
A. The Nicaragua test – effective control	76
B. The Tadić test – overall control	77
b. “Transnational” armed conflicts	79
i. Conflict between State A and armed group X based in State A, fighting in State A	80
ii. Conflict between State A and armed group X based in State B, fighting in State A	80
iii. Conflict between State A and armed group X, fighting in A spills across border into State B	81
iv. Conflict between State A and armed group X based in neighbouring State B, fighting in B only	82
v. Conflict between State A and armed group X based in State C (and elsewhere), fighting in various States	83
5. Conclusion	85
4 Individual status in armed conflict – combatants, non-combatants, direct participation in hostilities and prisoners of war	87
1. Introduction	87
2. Combatant status – criteria, privileges and responsibilities	88
a. Early rules on combatant status – the US Civil War to the Geneva Conventions of 1949	89

3. The current law regarding combatant status	89
a. Members of the armed forces	90
b. Partisan and resistance fighters	91
i. Being commanded by a person responsible for his subordinates	91
ii. Having a fixed distinctive sign	92
iii. Carrying arms openly	92
iv. Obeying the laws of war	93
c. National liberation and guerrilla fighters under Protocol I	93
d. Levée en masse	95
e. Participants in non-international armed conflicts	96
4. Non-combatants entitled to POW status and treatment	97
5. Irregulars in hostilities not entitled to combatant status	98
a. Spies	98
b. Mercenaries	100
c. “Unlawful” combatants	102
d. Private military and security contractors	105
e. Civilians taking direct part in hostilities	109
6. Prisoner of war status	113
a. Determining prisoner of war status	113
b. Treatment of POWs	114
i. Rights of POWs	114
ii. Rules on conditions of captivity	116
iii. Rules on penal and disciplinary proceedings	117
iv. Obligations for detaining authorities regarding transmission of information, monitoring by Protecting Powers and the ICRC, and repatriation of prisoners of war	117
7. Conclusion	118
5 Protection of the wounded, sick and shipwrecked	120
1. Introduction	120
2. The origins of the protection of the hors de combat in armed conflict	120
3. The rules regarding respect for and care of the wounded, sick and shipwrecked	121
a. In international armed conflicts	121
b. In non-international armed conflicts	124
4. Provisions on the dead and missing	125

5. Medical personnel and the protection of medical goods and objects, including hospitals, ambulances and hospital ships	128
a. Medical and religious personnel	128
b. Medical goods and objects, including hospitals, ambulances and hospital ships	129
6. The protective emblems: the Red Cross, Red Crescent and Red Crystal	132
a. Background to the adoption of the emblems: the Red Cross	132
b. The Red Crescent	134
c. The Red Shield of David	136
d. The Red Crystal	137
e. Substance of the international law on the distinctive emblems	138
7. Conclusion	139
6 The law of occupation and the protection of civilians	142
1. Introduction	142
2. General protections for civilians	142
3. The historical development and philosophical underpinnings of the modern law of occupation	144
4. Beginning of occupation	146
a. Protected persons	147
b. Administration of occupied territory	149
c. Rules on protected persons and persons deprived of their liberty	151
i. Protected persons	151
ii. Persons deprived of their liberty	154
d. End of occupation	155
e. Problems regarding long-term occupation	155
5. Rules on the treatment of civilians in non-international armed conflicts	159
6. Conclusion	161
7 Targeting	163
1. Introduction	163
2. The philosophical underpinnings of the law of targeting	164
3. The basic rule: Article 48 of Additional Protocol I	165
4. Military objects and objectives	166

a. “Objects” and “objectives”	167
b. Nature, location, purpose, use	168
i. Nature	168
ii. Location	168
iii. Purpose	168
iv. Use	169
c. Destruction, capture or neutralisation	169
d. Circumstances ruling at the time	170
e. Definite military advantage	171
5. Additional rules on targeting military objectives	172
a. Indiscriminate attacks	172
b. Proportionality	174
c. Precautions in attack and defence	175
i. Precautions in attack	175
ii. Precautions in defence	178
6. Specific rules on targeting certain types of objects	179
a. Cultural property	179
b. The environment	183
c. Medical facilities	185
d. Works and installations containing dangerous forces	185
e. Objects necessary for the survival of the civilian population	187
f. Civil defence, non-defended localities and demilitarised zones	188
7. Dual use objects – a new category in the law of targeting?	191
8. A note on the law of targeting in non-international armed conflicts	192
9. Conclusion	193
8 Means and Methods of Warfare	195
1. Introduction	195
2. The general rules – the prohibitions on causing unnecessary suffering and superfluous injury, and on indiscriminate means and methods	195
3. The obligation to assess the legality of new means and methods of warfare	199
4. Specifically prohibited weapons and restricted weapons	200
a. Explosive and dum-dum bullets	200
b. Mines and booby-traps	201
i. Booby-traps	202

ii. Landmines	202
c. Incendiary weapons	205
d. Non-detectable fragments	205
e. Blinding laser weapons	206
f. Explosive remnants of war	207
g. Cluster munitions	207
h. Chemical weapons and poison	209
i. Biological and bacteriological weapons	210
5. Prohibited methods of warfare	211
a. Orders of “no quarter”	212
b. Perfidy	212
c. Siege warfare and starvation of civilians	214
d. Pillage	215
e. Other rules relating to methods of warfare	216
i. Belligerent reprisals	216
ii. Mercenaries	218
iii. Parachutists in distress	218
iv. Espionage	219
6. Means and methods of warfare of indeterminate or contested status	220
a. Depleted uranium	220
b. White phosphorus	221
c. Nuclear weapons	223
d. Cyber warfare	226
e. Targeted killing and drone warfare	229
7. Conclusion	234
9 Implementation, enforcement and accountability	235
1. Introduction	235
2. Common Article 1: the obligation to ensure respect	235
3. Measures to be taken in peacetime	237
a. Dissemination to the armed forces	238
b. Dissemination to civil society	239
c. Implementation into domestic legislation	239
4. Role of the protecting powers and the International Committee of the Red Cross	240
5. The International Humanitarian Fact Finding Commission	243
6. Accountability through international criminal law	244

a. Individual responsibility for violations of the laws of armed conflict	245
i. War crimes and grave breaches	245
ii. Violations of the law of armed conflict not amounting to grave breaches	247
iii. Crimes against humanity and genocide	247
b. Command responsibility	248
7. The International Criminal Court, the international tribunals, and the hybrid and internationalised courts	250
8. Reparations for violations of the law of armed conflict	252
9. The role of the United Nations and international and non-governmental organisations	253
10. Implementation, enforcement and accountability in non-international armed conflicts	256
a. What law applies?	256
b. To whom does the (NIAC) law apply?	258
c. Implementation, enforcement and accountability	262
i. Dissemination	262
ii. Special agreements	263
iii. Unilateral undertakings or commitments	263
iv. Accountability through international criminal law	264
11. Conclusion	265
10. Conclusions	267
Bibliography	269
Index	285