

The Body of Evidence

Corpses and Proofs in Early Modern European Medicine

Edited by

Francesco Paolo de Ceglia

BRILL

LEIDEN | BOSTON

Contents

List of Figures VII

Contributors VIII

Introduction: Corpses, Evidence and Medical Knowledge in the Late Middle Ages and the Early Modern Age 1

Francesco Paolo de Ceglia

PART 1

From Divination to Autopsy

- 1 Saving the Phenomenon: Why Corpses Bled in the Presence of Their Murderer in Early Modern Science 23

Francesco Paolo de Ceglia

- 2 Unfamiliar Faces: the Identification of Corpses in Late Medieval Valencia 53

Carmel Ferragud

- 3 Reading the Corpse in the Late Middle Ages (Bologna, Mid-13th Century–Early 16th Century) 71

Tommaso Duranti

PART 2

The Uncertainties of the Anatomical Gaze

- 4 Dissection Techniques, Forensics and Anatomy in the 16th Century 107

Allen Shotwell

- 5 Monstrous Exegesis: Opening Up Double Monsters in Early Modern Europe 119

Alan W.H. Bates

- 6 Corpses, Contagion and Courage: Fear and the Inspection of Bodies in 17th-Century London 149

Kevin Siena

- 7 Knowledge from Bodies and Resistance to Anatomical Discourse
(Padua, 16th–18th Centuries) 175
Massimo Galtarossa

PART 3

Corpses and Evidences

- 8 Reading Moral Conduct and Physical Characteristics: the Classification of Suicide in Early Modern Europe 193
Alexander Kästner
- 9 Corpses and Confessions: Forensic Investigation and Infanticide in Early Modern Germany 224
Margaret Brannan Lewis
- 10 Visum et Repertum: Medical Doctrine and Criminal Procedures in France and Naples (17th–18th Centuries) 245
Diego Carnevale
- 11 Frightening Whirlpools: Drowning in France in the 18th Century 270
Lucia De Frenza and Caterina Tisci
- Bibliography 295
Index 349

Figures

- 1.1 Cruentation in the episode of Hans Spiess (Diebold Schilling, Luzerner Chronik, 16th century, Zentral- und Hochschulbibliothek of Lucerne) 33
- 5.1 Martin Luther's monk-calf, allegedly born near Freiburg on 8 December, 1522 (Melanchthon and Luther, Deutung) 123
- 5.2 The pope-ass found on the banks of the Tiber (Melanchthon and Luther, Deutung) 123
- 5.3 The monster of Ravenna, as illustrated in Batman's Doom 125
- 5.4 A triple monster, from Batman's Doom 128
- 5.5 A double monster born in Württemberg in 1511 (Anon., Monstrificus puer) 135
- 5.6 A double monster born near Oxford in 1552 (Anon., Thou shalte understande) 137
- 5.7 The findings in Jean Riolan's autopsy of a double monster in 1605 (Riolan, De Monstro) 141
- 5.8 Everard Crynsz van der Maes. Conjoined twins born in the Low Countries in 1628 (detail) 143
- 6.1 "The Manner of Dissecting the Pestilential Body," Frontispiece (George Thomson, Loimotomia, or, The Pest Anatomized, London, 1666) 157