

Anne T. Feraru

California State University-Fullerton

The first draft of this package was developed with the assistance of the Education Commission of the International Studies Association through funds supplied by the National Science Foundation (GY-9343) to the International Relations Program of Syracuse University.

This package is being developed, tested and revised as part of a peer-review system established by the Consortium for International Studies Education. The package is reviewed by scholars, and the author meets periodically with college instructors throughout the United States to update and revise the package on a continuing basis.
